Paris - Honfleur

Joan LONGAS

Né en 1959 à Barcelone où il vit et travaille toujours.

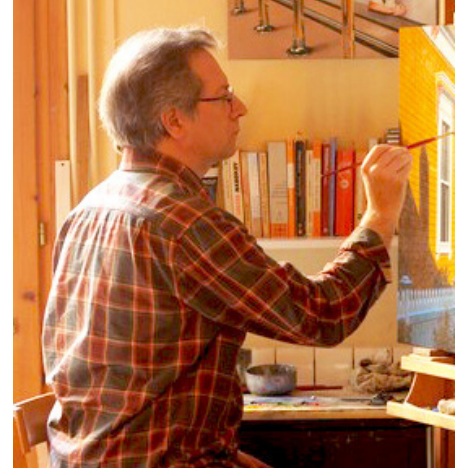

Joan Longas peint ses souvenirs les plus intimes. Ses œuvres racontent les routes californiennes, les stations-service, les fast-foods et les petits lieux du quotidien, vus à travers le regard d'un voyageur étranger. Sa première rencontre avec la Californie, en 1983, fut aussi celle d'un moment inoubliable : à l'aéroport de Los Angeles, sa future épouse l'attendait.

Ensemble, ils ont parcouru la côte, des plages de Playa del Rey jusqu'à Redondo Beach, découvrant les villes, les cafés et les instants simples qui resteront gravés dans sa mémoire.

Pour Joan Longas, la route est bien plus qu'un paysage : elle est symbole de liberté, de vie et de souvenirs. Ses toiles capturent ces moments suspendus, entre nostalgie et émerveillement, où le quotidien devient poésie.

« Certains de mes souvenirs les plus intimes et les plus beaux sont liés à ces moments passés à conduire sur une autoroute en Californie, en souhaitant que la route ne se termine jamais. »

Joan LONGAS

Born in 1959 in Barcelona, where he still lives and works.

Joan Longas paints his most intimate memories. His works depict California highways, gas stations, diners, and small everyday places, seen through the eyes of a traveling outsider.

His first encounter with California, in 1983, was also an unforgettable moment: at Los Angeles airport, his future wife was waiting for him.

Together, they drove along the coast, from the beaches of Playa del Rey to Redondo Beach, exploring towns, cafés, and simple moments that would remain etched in his memory.

For Joan Longas, the road is more than a landscape: it is a symbol of freedom, life, and memory.

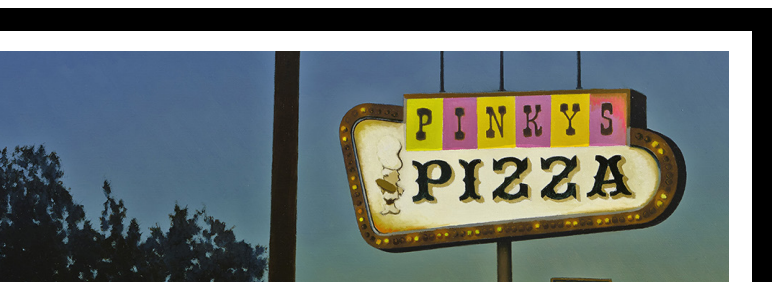

His paintings capture these suspended moments, between nostalgia and wonder, where the everyday becomes poetry.

« Some of my most intimate and beautiful memories are of driving on a highway in California, wishing the road would never end. »
